Frank Hanratty
Died In Arizona

Word was received here this morning of the death of Frank Hanratty, formerly of this city, who passed away at a government veteran's hospital at Tucson, Ariz., yesterday afternoon, following a long illness.

Mr. Hanratty formerly conducted the Highway cafe on First street, this city, and was also employed at the Colonial Inn at Grand Detour. He was a member of Dixon lodge, No. 779, B. P. O. Elks.

Because of failing health, he left Dixon about four years ago going to Phoenix, Ariz., where he remained until a short time ago, when he entered a veteran's hospital for treatment and where death occurred late yesterday.

Steel shutters were pried open on one window in the rear and the glass shattered in the rear room. The intruder could not gain entrance to the main store room due to the fact that the door was locked. The heavy plate glass in the rear door was broken open but again the thief was foiled by heavy iron bars on the door and a bolted bar which locked the door from the inside. Another window was then broken, through which entrance was gained.

The stamp drawer was jimmied open and all of the cash taken. Drawers and cases were opened in what appeared to have been a search for cash. Some of the stock was ransacked, and the intruder left the building by unlocking one of the front doors on First street, which was left partly open and which led to the discovery of the robbery by the police at 5 o'clock this morning.

VALLEY CHURCH BURNED

Col. Schwartzkopf's statement promised. At the outset Colonel Lindberg announced that all official information concerning the progress of the search would have to come from the state police headquarters.

One Known Fact
The nine days of investigation have been filled with hundreds of leads that have sent investigators into New England, Pennsylvania, and New York. So far as is known however, the vital facts remain very brief.

The baby has not been found. A gangster volunteer in the baby search—the notorious Capone—to day pleaded from his Chicago jail cell for release under bond so he might exert his admittedly extensive underworld influence toward the return of the child to his parents.

A fourth figure with a gangland background—Morris Rosner—has called at the Lindbergh home during the past few days, according to Edward P. Mulrooney, Commissioner of New York police. Rosner, the Commissioner said, is out on bail pending trial on a grand larceny charge growing out of the sale of stocks.

It was Rosner, according to some sources of information who caused Spitalo and Bliz, New Yorkers with gang influence, to be named as possible go between, in the belief that professional criminals would not hesitate to deal with them, regarding both Spitalo and Bliz as being "square shooters."

In his cell in the Cook county jail in Chicago, Al Capone, under an 11 year federal prison sentence for income tax law violation, said he was "pretty sure" he could get the Lindbergh baby back to his parents if he were released on bond. He proposed that he be released on bond—$100,000 as much bond as the government asks, $500,000 if need be—so that he may have a chance to see what he can do.

Capone's Offer
Capone disclaimed any theories about the kidnapping other than a belief that "some mob did it." His plan, if given temporary freedom, would be to "get in touch with a lot of people I know."

"If it wasn't a mob, the kidnappers would have been caught by now," the gang chief said. "Only a mob could get away with it. That is why I could help a lot—I know a lot of people."

"If it wasn't a mob, the kidnappers would have been caught by now," the gang chief said. "Only a mob could get away with it. That is why I could help a lot—I know a lot of people."

When George E. Q. Johnson, the Federal Attorney in Chicago, was asked what he thought of freeing Capone temporarily to give him a chance to help on the Lindbergh case, he said:

"I know of no formal move now afoot to free Capone on bond. I don't want to say what my reaction would be to such a move until it is made."

The New Jersey police declined to comment on the Al Capone offer. They said it was a matter for the federal government.

Henry (Red) Johnson, the sailor friend of Betty Gow, nursemaid of the Lindbergh baby, was revealed today to have been placed formally under arrest March 6. The charge is violation of the immigration laws. The state police said they had not entirely eliminated Miss Gow from consideration. She is at the Lindbergh home.

THE WAY WE BEAR OUR CROSS—

God keep us through these somber days.

These days when doubt and fear surmount.

When pessimism clouds our gaze.

And naught but self seem worth the count.

Master stretch our vision far.

Keep Thou our heart serene.

Preserve intact our childhood faith.

Upon its precepts, trustful, lean.

Teach, us it matters not the trail.

The emptiness of earthly loss.

But all worthwhile is just the way

We bear our cross.

South Dixon Community Club Meeting

The members of the South Dixon Community Club met in an all day meeting Wednesday March 9, with Mrs. J. Lautzenheizer.

A delicious chicken pie dinner was served at noon by the hostess, with Mrs. Lauren Henry assisting.

The President and Vice President both being absent, the meeting was called to order by the secretary, with roll call and minutes of the last meeting being read.

It was decided at this time to hold the next meeting in three weeks, on Mar. 30th.

The meeting was then turned over to the Chairman of the Program committee, Mrs. Arnold Gottell, who had two very interesting contests.

The St. Patrick's Day dancing and card party which has been arranged by Dorothy Chapter, O. E. LINDY'S HOLD ON THE PEOPLE.

One of the most amazing things in recent history is the way the tragic events of the last few days have demonstrated anew the tremendous hold that Colonel Lindbergh has on the American people.

It is doubtful if any other American ever occupied a position quite like his. From being a human being with ordinary frailties and imperfections, he has become—not exactly a demi-god who can do no wrong, but an institution which is established on an absolutely solid and permanent basis.

That flight to Paris is a long way in the past now. Other great flights have been made since then, other sensations have come and gone, other heroes have arisen to have their day in the limelight and then fade out of the picture; but the peak on which that amazing flight landed Lindbergh has grown higher with the passing years.

Probably no other conceivable event short of the nation's entrance into a great war could have stirred the American people as deeply as the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby stirred it. During the past week it has been almost the only topic of conversation. You hear people discussing it on street cars and in buses; the waitress who gives you your sandwich in the restaurant, the bootblack who shines your shoes, the acquaintance you meet on the street—all have wanted to know the latest news.

And this hasn't been merely an evidence of public desire for sensation. The loss of the child was a personal matter to almost everyone in the country. People did not simply feel that a horrible crime had been committed; they felt that their own deepest sympathies had been outraged, and in a very real way they suffered with Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh.

Many times in the past the public has shown how greatly it cherishes its most famous aviator. Now, in the time of his greatest sorrow it has revealed the full extent of the way in which it has made him its own. Henceforth, apparently, we have an unofficial first citizen whose status cannot change; and, in his charming wife, we have an unofficial, deeply-loved first lady.

SMALL CONFIDENT OF VICTORY.

The Illinois State Journal, published at Springfield, on February 25 had the following article concerning Len Small's G. O. P. gubernatorial campaign:

"Small Says He Will Win at State Primary
"Believes Race Between Him and Omer Custer
"Former Governor Len Small, Kankakee, is all set for the primary campaign which he believes will return him a winner on April 12.

"Speaking from his home last night, the former governor expressed the hope that the leading Republicans in the primary race would not withdraw, and in the final analysis, he said, the fight will be between him and Omer N. Custer, Galesburg.

"I am highly pleased with the present political situation," Mr. Small said. "It is the best it has ever been for me."

"Asked if he thought any of the leading candidates would withdraw, Mr. Small replied:
"I hope not. As for myself I will be in the race to the finish. I believe I will receive more votes than all of the others put together. This statement may seem exaggerated, but encouraging reports which we are receiving induce me to make it.

"I am glad Mr. Brundage decided to enter the race. In the final analysis, the primary race will be between me and Mr. Custer. He will have the jobs and the money."
"Mr. Small is enjoying the best of health. Thus far in the campaign he has been active from his home at Kankakee, but soon is expected to start a downstate tour."

Good Thoughts for Good People

GOOD THOUGHTS

The proper function of a government is to make it easy for people to do good, and difficult for people to do evil.

—Gladstone

All good government must begin at home. It is useless to make good laws for bad people what is wanted is this, to subdue the tyranny of the human heart.

—Hugh R. Hawes

Whatever makes men good Christians, makes them good citizens.

—Benjamin Daniel Webster

It seems to me a great truth that human things cannot stand on selfishness, mechanical utilities, economies and law courts; that if there be not a religious element in the relations of men, such relations are miserable and doomed to ruin.

—Carlyle

Moses turned wholly to God, divine Mind, as the Law-maker, and through divine guidance was enabled to give to the Israelites the Ten Commandments, the first of which "Thou shalt have no other gods before me," compasses all the rest. Human laws which pattern the divine, operate to relieve, to protect, and to restore Liberty and happiness to mankind. To conform to such righteous laws in individual living is to aid in establishing its observance in the life of a nation. The progress of a people or nation toward permanent peace and liberty is measured by the righteousness of its laws and the acceptance by the people of the demands of these laws.

—The Christian Science Monitor

The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul. The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart; the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes. Moreover by them is thy servant warned; and in keeping of them there is great reward.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The baker's monstrous piehouse was a very funny sight because the entrance, made of a pie, had just one little door. "Walk right in here," the baker cried. "There's just one way to get inside. I'd have another entrance, but I don't need any more."

"You see, I bake here day by day and, after all, to me it's play. It's fun to watch my dough bread rise just like a big balloon. I'll do a lot before you go. That way I'll have a chance to show you heaps of sights. Oh, you all will be real thrilled, pretty soon."

Then into his bake shop they went. About a half an hour was spent in looking round. The Tinxies thought it was a wondrous place. The baker watched them as they gazed. "I love it," shouted Scouty with a smile upon his face.

"Oh, look!" cried Duncy. "What I see! Those cookies look real good to me. Say, can we have one, baker man? We're hungry as can be!"

"Why, sure," replied the baker man. "I've just removed them from the pan. I guess they're cool enough to eat. Go right ahead and see."

Just then they heard wee voices shout. "Hey, someone kindly let us out." The oven door flew open and some cream puffs came in sight. "It's much too hot in here," said one. "And too much heat is far from fun. If we can get out in the air, I guess we'll be all right."

The baker cried, "All right, jump free. I'm sure it's quite all right with me. You're nice and brown, so you are done. I'm glad you didn't burn." The Tinxies watched the bunch jump out, amid a very cheerful shout. Said Windy, "Gee, most every day there's something new we learn."

(Duncy gets into an awful mess in the next story.)

HINTS for HOME GARDENERS

This is the second of a series of articles on flower gardening written especially for NEA Service and The Dixon Evening Telegraph.

BY DR. WM. A. TAYLOR
Chief, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture
Flower gardens ought to be planted at least twice—once, at least, on paper before planting in soil. The pencil precedes the spade to good effect.

Probably there are no living gardens that ever reach in June the perfection possible in January or February gardens, the raw materials of which are a pencil, seed catalogues, garden books and bulletins, and sheets of wrapping paper.

The garden on paper is not a fanciful, but rather a thoroughly practical—almost an essential—aid in reaching even measurably near to the perfect garden. On paper it is easy to detect and rectify errors, correct omissions, and check up color combinations and the relative heights of plants that are to be neighbors.

The paper garden combines something of the usefulness of the blueprint and specifications which the architect prepares for the builder, and the sketch which the artist makes before he starts painting an important canvas.

To start a paper garden takes only a few minutes. Pace off or measure the principal dimension of the area and locate correctly walks, trees, buildings, bushes, and other established figures. A scale of one inch to the foot is convenient when plotting plants now in the garden and make note of the colors, height, and so on. Then comes the planning of the garden-to-be.

Correct Mistakes on Paper

Almost every gardener has favorites which he feels must appear in his garden. But where? Perhaps he recalls that last summer, his lupines did not look so blue and his zinnias not so warm a red as some he saw in a neighbor's garden. Perhaps the only trouble was they were too close together and each killed the effect of the other because the colors clashed and did not harmonize. Again, it is obviously foolish to plant a low-growing old-fashioned pink to the rear of a thick row of tall marigolds.

On paper it is easy to erase the lupine or the zinnia and find spaces where the bold colors will not clash. It is easy to move the pinks forward and the marigolds back. It is not easy to remember all these points in the rush of spring gardening or planting and transplanting.

Garden Bulletins Free

Fortunately there are many aids for gardeners-on-paper. The seed catalogues help. Many good books offer effective advice. Magazines contribute suggestions. The U. S. Department of Agriculture will send free, Farmers' Bulletin 1381-F "Herbaceous Perennials," and Farmers' Bulletin 1171-F, "Growing Annual Flowering Plants," each a useful handbook.

Of course, no garden ever develops exactly according to plan. Seeds fail to germinate, cutworms get some of the tender transplants, and original plans have to be altered accordingly. But even so, the plan can be altered as the fortunes of the season dictate, and substitutions can be made more intelligently with the aid of the plan.

TOMORROW: Experimenting with flowers.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

Those of us who got all excited beat a ruffle of drums and frantically called out the guard a couple of years ago when Tiffany Thayer produced his amazing "Thirteen Men" might just as well go back to our tents now, and let the guard go back too. Mr. Thayer has now come to bat with "Thirteen Women," and the let-down is an unpleasant jolt.

The lusty vitality and the exultant reveling in all varieties of human experience which made the first book memorable are missing in the new one. The faults—slovenly writing, occasional bawdiness, a confusing story-structure—are present, somewhat exaggerated.

"Thirteen Women" begins as a tale of action and suspense. A strange and uncanny doom is now stalking the lives of a dozen women who were chums in a finishing school. One woman is killed, another is driven insane, another commits murder, another mysteriously dies, while a fake astrologer stands in the wings and makes an accurate prediction of each disaster.

But the tale presently switches and becomes a sort of psychological study of the individual women. One by one, you look at each woman's life history and discover why she is what she is; but somehow it doesn't seem so very important, or even so very interesting.

And then, at the end, the action-and-suspense element returns. In regular movie thriller fashion. But by this time you don't quite get as excited as you should.

There is no question that Mr. Thayer has an unusual and striking talent. But he hasn't yet lived up to the things he promised in "Thirteen Men."

STERLING BEAT DIXON JUST AS WAS EXPECTED

Third Meeting Of Two Teams Was Rough: 38 Fouls Called

BY DON HILLIKER

For the third time this season Sterling defeated Dixon, this time in the Coliseum district tournament game last night, 26-14. The tilt was a rough game with the officials calling 38 fouls. The other games gave Tampico a win over Amboy, 23-13, and Ohio and 20-13 victory against Lee Center.

Tonight's games see Walnut vs West Brooklyn, Sterling vs Tampico and Rock Falls vs Prophetstown. The locals game last night concluded the season with two wins and 12 losses. The first quarter was close with Sterling cashing in on free tosses to lead 7-2. However, Sterling's big moment came in the second quarter when, with Weaver leading the attack, they scored 11 points to take an 18-3 lead at the half. In the second half Sterling slowed, added only three points in the third period, while the best Dixon could do was two points. Substitutes played most of the final quarter for the victors and Dixon hit the hoop for nine points, the highest total score in one period by the Dixons this year.

Besides the 38 personals called, another outstanding incident is the teams records from the foul lines. Dixon had 22 chances to score presented to them and made only eight. Sterling was a bit better making 8 out of 18. Weaver was the high scorer of the evening with three baskets, two free throws for eight points. Terhune and J. Hendricks had six each for second honors. Bales and Brown led Dixon with three points apiece. The score:

Last weeks grade school tournament champions, the Dixon All-Stars will play two home games over the week end. Tonight at 7 o'clock there will be two games in the high school gymnasium with Rock Falls. On Saturday afternoon at 2:30 Sterling meets the local champs on the latter's floor.

FAVORITES LOOMING

Chicago, Mar. 11—(AP)—The Illinois district basketball tournament situation today had been boiled down to a point where favorites for spots in the sectionals next week were looming.

Four days of greater or less activity, with emphasis on the "greater" during the past two days, had accounted for the chances of nearly 500 of the 811 teams which started the battle, and at one district—Pana—two teams were ready for the finals.

At Pana, Hillsboro qualified for the final round by defeating Rosamond, 17 to 10, and will meet Taylorville, which defeated Tower Hill, 28 to 13.

The biggest upset of the week was produced at Aurora where West Chicago, which had won only four games this season, arose and smacked West Aurora, 26 to 7. At the same tournament, Geneva, which had dropped 13 straight games, found itself and defeated Yorkville, 27 to 15.

Although several games in yesterday's clashes were close, few games went into overtime periods. At Mt. Morris, Kings required two extra periods to defeat Steward 22 to 21, and at Rock Island, Cordova carried Hillsdale into the third overtime session before losing 13 to 11. Kirkland's 45 to 8 decision at Rockford was the widest margin of victory in last night's games, although East St. Louis also scored the same number of points to dispose of O'Fallon in the district event at Belleville. Sesser's loss to West Frankfort, 3 to 25, took the honors at the other end of the scale.

Among last night's scores were: At Aurora (West) Geneva 27; Yorkville 15. Plano 29; Sugar Grove 15. West Chicago 26; Aurora (West) 7. At DeKalb Kingston 47; Kaneville 14. Sycamore 36; Elburn 10. Hinckley 35; Genoa 21. Paw Paw 17; Rollo 13 (overtime). At East Peoria Peoria Manual 29; Eureka 25. Rock Island 45; Metamora 15. At Carthage Colchester 23; Carthage 14. Hamilton 39; Warsaw 6. Baco 27; Colusa 7. At Freeport Freeport 33; Warren 11. Davis 19; Shannon 12.

IMPROVEMENT IS SEEN IN BROWNS; TEAM IS HUSTLING

Bill Killifer Has Done Much For St. Louis American Team

By ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Writer West Palm Beach, Fla., Mar. 11—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns, best of the second division clubs in the American League last year, have a fast young outfit that shows distinct signs of improvement over last year's outfit.

It has, quite frankly, no pennant prospects nor more than an outside chance of crashing the first division in a circuit top heavy with the strength of four leading clubs, but the reconstruction program of Manager Bill Killifer is showing favorable results. Step by step Killifer has patiently rid the Browns of dissension, developed young players and, finally, eliminated the "bonus system" that upset the club's morale to some extent last season. The players have nothing else to do now but concentrate on contributing the maximum to team play, instead of attempting to fatten the pay envelopes by individual exploits.

Holdout troubles have beset the Browns, in the absence of any other items of irritation. Killifer has been handicapped by the delay in signing such stars as Goose Goslin, Ralph Kress, Dick Ferrall and Wally Stewart.

Develops Infield

Meanwhile he has concentrated on the development of his young infield. "We tried the experiment last year of installing most of the Wichita Falls infield as regulars," said Bill. "It gave me a few more grey hairs but those boys have kept hustling and should be much better ball players this season."

"Burns, at first base, should make a real star. He has gained confidence and he can hit. We will give Jim Levey another chance at short. He must settle down to keep the job, however. Oscar Millio will take care of second base, without giving me anything to worry about. "I have decided to put Ralph A. Kress in right field regularly instead of shifting him around the way we were forced to do last season. He played three infield positions and the outfield in 1931. Lin Storti will get every opportunity to make good at third."

The Browns are a bit shy of reserves. But Jimmy McLaughlin, former Pacific Coast League star, is a good third base prospect and Wes Kingston, up again from Chattanooga, can fill in at short.

Plenty of Punch

There will be plenty of punch in an outfield composed of Kress, Fred Schulte and Goose Goslin. But Killifer would like another good left handed clouter for alternate duty.

The pitching staff has a strong quartet in Stewart, one of the best southpaws in the League; George Blaeholder, Dick Coffman and Sam Gray. Gray lost 24 games last year but they blame the "bonus system" for that. Coffman found himself late in the season when he hurried a one-hit game and then beat the broke Lefty Grove in a duel that broke Grove's winning streak.

Wally Herbert, the Louisiana school boy who southpawed the Athletics into subjection in his first start, is the brightest of the young hurling prospects. Big Chad Kinsley, Bob Cooney from Wichita Falls, and Americo Polli, up from Milwaukee, all look good.

With Dick Ferrall and the veteran Benny Bengough behind the bat the club is well fortified. To develop more speed Killifer has had his boys working in a new sliding pit, a novelty in the Grapefruit Circuit, and an indication of the return to old fashioned methods.

College Team May Win A. A. U. Honors

Kansas City, Mar. 11—(AP)—A college team threatens to take the A. A. U. national basketball title out of the hands of the "independents" which have dominated the field both in numbers and quality for eleven years.

The Northwest Missouri Teachers of Maryville, exponents of "precision basketball" and undefeated champions of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association, play the Southern Kansas State Lines team of Wichita, Kas., in the semi-final round of the annual A. A. U. tournament here tonight.

The Henry Clothiers of Wichita, winners the last two years, meets the Schuessler Athletic Club of Chicago in the other half of the all-midwestern semi-finals.

To the two Olympic championships she won at Amsterdam in 1928.

At Amsterdam, Miss Catherwood won championships in high jumping and beauty. Following her triumph in the jump she was voted the prettiest girl athlete in the games.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS

Los Angeles, Cal., Mar. 11—(AP)—The next six days probably will determine the fates of certain Chicago Cub recruits, who must prove their rights to major league uniforms.

Six battles with the New York Giants, starting today, will give the youngsters enough testing to enable Manager Rogers Hornsby to decide who is to remain with the club, or be turned over to the Los Angeles club.

Lennie Warneke and Bud Tinning were nominated to do the pitching against the Giants today, with the other youngsters, other than hurlers, coming in to get into action for an inning or so.

San Antonio, Tex., Mar. 11 (AP)—Any member of the Chicago White Sox squad who shows signs of being able to hit is likely to be carried a long time this season.

From the 1931 club, which finished last in the American League only Lu Blue and Lev Fonseca, among the regulars, reached or bettered 300. Smead Jolley, the embryo catcher, also notched 300, but was used only as a pinch batsman. Where the Sox punch, if any, is coming from, no one knows, and efforts to locate it have been retarded by unsuitable baseball weather.

Port Myers, Fla., Mar. 11—(AP)—Golf is about the only exercise George Earnshaw and Al Simmons have had so far in their winter training camp at Hot Springs, Ark. Joe Boley reported on his arrival from the Spa. He said it has been too cold for the two Mackmen to work out with a baseball.

Winter Haven, Fla., Mar. 11 (AP)—The Phillips regulars who shut out the "B" team by the tight score of 1 to 0 in a practice game yesterday, will be used against the Cardinals at Bradenton tomorrow. Manager But. Shotton has announced.

Reg Grabowski will pitch the first three innings, with Roy Hansen handling the middle three and Homer Dudley finishing off.

Savannah, Ga., Mar. 11—(AP)—Shono Collins' Red Sox team today made their third attempt to hold a nine-inning practice game. Trainer "Bills" Bierhalter reports everyone in excellent condition with the ball.

Clearwater, Fla., Mar. 11—(AP)—It old Jack Quinn of the Brooklyn Dodgers should stick around the majors another 20 years all the my-series that surround him might be cleared up.

Nobody—perhaps not even Jack himself—knows how old he is but it finally has been learned that he is not Polish.

Quinn says: "I'm English with just enough Irish and Welsh seasonings to make me spicy."

San Francisco, Cal., Mar. 11—(AP)—It was just a coincidence that last year's regulars broke training camp at Palo Alto and joined the main body of Detroit Tigers here the day the Bengal recruits lost a 6 to 5 decision to the Pacific Coast League seals.

Manager Rucky Harris said, however, he would insert some regulars in the line-up now that the squad is together again. The recruits twice defeated the Seals before dropping yesterday's 10-inning thriller.

Paso Robles, Calif., Mar. 11—(AP)—Concluding their training period here with a practice contest today, the Pittsburgh Pirates will leave for Oakland where they open their exhibition tour Sunday with the Oakland Coast League team.

Biloxi, Miss., Mar. 11—(AP)—Whatever there may be to talk that outfielder Dave Harris will be used together in a trade for a pitcher, he will report in time for tomorrow's workout here with the Washington Senators.

Harris has been detained in North Carolina by the illness of his wife.

Los Angeles, Mar. 11—(AP)—With the player limit cut to 23, John McGraw of the New York Giants is worrying most these days about what to do with surplus material.

In addition to his regular infield, McGraw has a second complete set of inner defense men, and two sets of outfielders.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Mar. 11—(AP)—The Braves have turned to track for their competitions in these days of bad baseball weather. Wally Beger has yet to be beaten in the 60-yard dash that is a part of the day's training session.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Mar. 11—(AP)—"Goose" Goslin, star infielder and slugger, was in the St. Louis Browns fold today, leaving but four holdouts listed on the club roster.

Goslin signed his contract yesterday after lengthy conferences with owner Phil Ball over salary figures. Neither of them made known the terms of the contract.

Dempsey Near KO In Bout In Akron

Akron, O., Mar. 11—(AP)—A 19-year-old Hank Hankinson from Lancaster, O., with 205 pounds of muscle, sent Jack Dempsey reeling to the ropes in an exhibition bout last night, before the ex-champion Wally Gilbert and Outfielder John Frederick of the Dodgers for the holdouts.

The sale report was that the Central Trust Company of Cincinnati a major stock holder in the club, had sent a representative to interview Perry, who has bid twice before but been refused.

New Orleans, La., Mar. 11 (AP)—Watch out for the Cleveland Indians this year! In the opinion of conservative Bill Evans, the Tribe's General Manager, the Cleveland team will finish 1932 "no worse than third."

And if just one more good pitcher is developed, plus reasonably good shortstopping, Evans believes, the Indians will be pennant contenders.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Mar. 11 (AP)—George Pigras has discovered the secret of Vernon Gometz's sensational success with the New York Yankees last season.

"The catcher," says Pigras, "gives Gomez the sign but then he doesn't know what Lefty is going to pitch."

"The batter doesn't know what's coming."

"Gomez doesn't know where the ball is going."

"The umpire doesn't know what to call it."

"Thus everybody's fooled and victories pile up."

Do You Remember

One Year Ago Today — The golf team of Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, former national open champions, and another Metropolitan pair, Willie MacFarlane and Wally Cox, played 40 holes to a deadlock in the finals of the $5000 Miami international fourball matches. Darkness ended the play in the deadlock.

Five Years Ago Today — Officials of the famous Pompano race track, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., were cleared of gambling charged by a county court which ruled the system of contributions and distribution of trusses was not contrary to Florida laws.

Ten Years Ago Today — Cornell University's well balanced team scored 35 1-2 points to win the first annual I. C. 4A indoor track and field games. LeRoy Brown, Dartmouth high jumper, broke his own world indoor record with a leap of 6 feet 4 7-8 inches.

Borotra Gunning For Fifth Crown New York, Mar. 11—(AP)—Jean Borotra starts gunning for his fifth American indoor tennis championship tomorrow but expert opinion accords him hardly an even chance to repeat.

The famous Basque, long the greatest of players indoors, has been slipping steadily for several years. He lost the French indoor title this year—a crown on which he has had a virtual monopoly for season after season.

Some experts believe it questionable whether the French ace will get as far as the finals. They point out that the luck of the draw, if it follows form, will force Borotra to meet Eddie Jacobs of the University of Pittsburgh, one of the most experienced of college players.

Berkley Bell of New York, and Frank Shields before he can march into the finals where he probably will find George Lott waiting for him.

Iowa Athletic Board Will Meet Tomorrow Iowa City March 11—(AP)—The Athletic Board of the University of Iowa was expected to meet today or early tomorrow to undertake further action toward the selection of a new head football coach.

The chief business is expected to be the report of Dr. E. H. Lauer, Athletic Director and Prof. F. G. Thurston, board member who returned from a trip on which they are reported to have interviewed Gus Dorais, Detroit University coach, and Harry Stuhldreher at Villanova, Pa., regarding the coaching job. Speculation was also heard today regarding the visit yesterday of Irl Tubbs, former baseball coach at Wisconsin State Teachers.

Whether Dr. Lauer and Prom Higbee made definite progress in the search for a coach will probably not be learned until after the board meeting.

Cent-Per-Shell Tax Bill Ready For Enactment

Washington — A cent-a-shell federal tax on all shotgun ammunition except that used in trapshooting was declared to be the most feasible means of financing an adequate waterfowl restoration program, by the special Ways and Means Committee in its report today (March 10). This committee was authorized at the American Game Conference in New York last December. The committee indicated that a bill asking adoption of the shell tax plan will be introduced in Congress immediately.

Stating that upwards of $7,000,000 can be collected yearly by this method and that payments would be made by each shooter in exact proportion to the amount of his shooting, the committee recommended that the returns should be divided between the federal government and the states in the following manner:

Not more than 5 per cent of the total should be used for additional federal administration, research and enforcement.

Fifty-five per cent of the balance should be allotted to the game department of the various states, based on the number of hunting licenses issued by each, with the proviso that the state game departments may, upon request, refund to individuals and trapshooting clubs the amount of tax paid by them on shells used at the traps. The remainder of the funds allotted to the states would be used solely to increase game.

Forty-five per cent would be expended by the federal government for the increase of waterfowl through the acquisition or control of migratory game bird breeding, refuge and concentration areas in the United States and Canada, and the proper management of such areas.

The tax would be collected at ammunition factories, and stamps applied exactly as is done with cigarettes.

The committee after a survey of the prevailing sentiment in Congress, chose the tax plan, suggested by the More Game Birds in America Foundation, and rejected the American Game Association's recommended $1 federal license for every migratory bird hunter.

Composing the committee are Brooke Anderson of Chicago member of the federal migratory bird advisory board, chairman; William C. Adams, director of the division of fish and game of New York, Utah, wild-life supervisor of the National Park Service; Col. Lewis B. Ballantyne, chairman of the fish and game committee of the New Jersey Assembly and Major A. Willis T. Robertson, chairman of the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries.

TURKS ARE ROUTED On March 11, 1918, Turkish forces fell back in great disorder from Hit in Mesopotamia, with the British outposts were placed more than 20 miles above the city after an all-day chase of their adversaries.

British advances in Palestine were also noted, although these troops met with stiff resistance from opposing Turkish regiments.

German advances to several divisions delivered a terrific blow to British troops near Ypres. After heavy fighting, which continued through the night, German gains were considered slight.

Naples was bombed by German flyers. Sixteen were killed.

WETS HOLD LEAD OF THREE-TO-ONE IN DIGEST'S POLL

Returns From 38 States
Compiled In Current Issue Of Digest

The wets continue to poll more than three to one over the dries with initial returns from 14 more states swelling the total vote to over two million in The Literary Digest's nationwide prohibition poll this week, according to figures tabulated in tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

2,063,111 ballots are reported received from 38 states and the District of Columbia, of which 488,335 or 23.66 percent favor continuance of the Eighteenth Amendment and 1,574,776, or 76.34 per cent, vote for repeal.

The dry vote records a third consecutive gain over the wet vote this week, from 22.61 per cent to 23.66 per cent of the total. In the first returns of this "straw" referendum the dries polled 15.85 per cent.

Every southern state so far reported shows a wet majority.

Kansas is the only state voting dry in this current report with a percentage of 52.58 for prohibition. Fourteen states reporting first returns this week include Alabama, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Oregon, Texas, Washington, and Wisconsin, besides the District of Columbia.

Of this new contingent, Oklahoma is the driest state tabulated with a 45.56 per cent sentiment for prohibition and Wisconsin registers the wettest returns with 82.94 per cent of its total vote for repeal.

Arkansas rises to second place in the dry column with a percentage of 48.67 in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment and Tennessee drops to third place with a dry vote of 47.31 per cent.

New York and New Jersey continue to lead as first and second in the wet column but show a slight gain in dry sentiment.

California has the largest wet vote of the Pacific coast states with 77.52 per cent for repeal, while Oregon votes 71.25 per cent and Washington 65.95 per cent against prohibition.

A "check-up" city poll by the Wichita Beacon, a reputedly dry newspaper, practically parallels The Literary Digest returns in this Kansas city, it is announced.

Using the same questions, The Wichita Beacon's returns were announced as 42.79 per cent for prohibition and 57.21 per cent for repeal while the incomplete Literary Digest returns for the same city are given as 42.10 per cent for continuance and 57.90 for repeal.

The Literary Digest notes that ten more states and that millions more of votes are anticipated.

"Never has a Literary Digest poll been more bitterly and ingeniously assailed than this one," the magazine states editorially. "Never has a Digest poll been more strikingly vindicated."

"We are indebted to the Wichita Beacon itself for a telegraphed account of its test of The Literary Digest's accuracy. While loyally dry, The Beacon has the frankness that goes with good journalism. It wires:

"Wichita Beacon Prohibition Poll conducted simultaneously but not in connection with that of Literary Digest, gives complete, 9,680 for repeal of Eighteenth Amendment and 7,239 for continued enforcement."

"At this writing, The Digest has tabulated 2,848 Wichita ballots, for continuance of the Eighteenth Amendment 1,199. For repeal, 1,649."

"ALL-BRAN LIVES UP TO REPUTATION"

Her Constipation Overcome
by This Delicious Cereal

If you are troubled with constipation, read Miss Bundy's enthusiastic letter:

"I would like to congratulate the one who discovered ALL-BRAN. It really does live up to its reputation when it is said to 'relieve constipation.'"

"I used to feel poor all the time—just down and out—and after reading an advertisement in a magazine about ALL-BRAN I got a box. It has evermore helped me, and it is not hard at all to eat."—Miss Mary Bundy, Bennettsville, S. C.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN brings two things needed to correct common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes.

How much safer than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . .

HILLS BROS CHANGED COFFEE-ROASTING FROM A GUESSING-GAME TO A SCIENCE

Controlled Roasting—
Hills Bros' patented process—roasts small amounts, continuously,
under automatic control

Exact roast assured for every pound . . . delightful flavor never changes

Hills Bros. developed a new way to roast coffee, because in ordinary, bulk-roasting methods the roast is governed by a man's guess. And men make mistakes. One batch may be underdone; another overdone. Flavor-variations naturally result.

Hills Bros' patented Controlled Roasting process always makes a perfect roast! Instead of big batches, Hills Bros. roast a little at a time . . . without guesswork! Small quantities of coffee pass evenly, continuously through the roasters.

Every pound is done to the exact degree that develops the most enjoyable flavor.

Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

Order Hills Bros. Coffee by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Did you ever stop to think

EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Okla.

It seems as though every nation is trying to work out a problem of how to buy as little as possible from foreign nations and how to sell as much as possible to them. Most of them seem to be trying to help themselves behind tariff barricades. In this great scramble for foreign trade all of them are trying to be a control unto themselves along certain lines of industry.

The merchants of your city have given much thought and care in the selection of the merchandise they offer you through their newspaper advertisements. They have merchandise in stock that will meet your every requirement. Why shop elsewhere?

It has been often stated that a policeman's lot is not a happy one. I rather think that he should be unpopular with criminals, but in these days of motor cars and freight trucks, he becomes unpopular with many motorists because in the performance of his duty he must protect the public from reckless drivers and those who misuse the roads. The word "police" is derived from Greek and originally meant "a constitution or a condition of a city." I am afraid the ancient Greeks did not conceive the same idea of this word as we do now. Police is a term used of the enforcement of law and order in a state or community, and is the department concerned with that part of the civil administration.

The location and industrial importance of some cities are little known beyond the confines of a few miles.

In many towns and cities the citizens need constant prodding by their newspapers to keep them moving ahead at even a moderate speed. Every step made in the onward path of progress of civilization has been bitterly combated by some groups of individuals.

When men of vision and resources combine to make a better city, they succeed.

Well advertised products are better products. People give them the favorable consideration they deserve.

Daily Health Talk

"The other day a man of fifty years was boasting about his athletic prowess. He was one of those gentlemen who early in life became sold to the big-muscle idea. Three times a week for the past thirty years he has visited the local gymnasium where hand-ball, basket-ball and religiously. And there is no doubt that he is a splendid specimen of middle-aged manhood. However, he possesses one glaring defect. His teeth are false. In his exercise program, he entirely forgot his mouth—too common fault of people everywhere," said Dr. L. W. Neber, Superintendent of the State Health

Department's dental section, today.

"Along with the muscles of the body, the teeth of these modern times have decidedly suffered from soft living. Gasoline and electricity are doing the work which the body in former days was compelled to execute. And the soft, prepared, and sometimes half digested provender which is one's lot today, has so taken business away from the mouth that deterioration and decay have just naturally stepped in.

"Let it be plainly understood that teeth primarily were made for use and not for looks. Moreover, they were designed to be employed on hard, tough foods. It is a significant fact that the Eskimos and other aboriginal tribes who are yet compelled strictly to live by nature's laws possess teeth which would create righteous envy on the part of the average American man and woman.

"While of course it can hardly be expected that people will revert to the old types of food, it is not too much to suggest that the teeth be given a better deal from the standpoint of exercise than they are now getting.

"This worthy object can be attained by the simple process of more careful mastication. Biologists inform us that the best of the nourishing qualities in food will not be extracted in the digestive process if sustenance is more or less swallowed without first having been ground by the teeth.

"It would therefore appear to be exceedingly good business to use the teeth for the teeth's sake. Boiling food or washing it down with liquids are ideal ways not to do this. Give the teeth the daily exercise that they require by way of proper and thorough mastication.

"Develop your muscles if you care to, but also develop strength in your teeth. There is many a dollar now going to the dentist for repair and extraction work which in the future can be saved if this advice is heeded."

DISLOCATION OF THE HIP

A certain number of children are born with defective hip bones, resulting in what is called congenital dislocation of the hip.

The defect lies in the absence of adequate development of the hip socket into which fits the head of the long bone of the thigh.

This defect, is not plainly apparent in the new born child or very young infant and can be discovered only upon a searching examination including the X-ray of the hip bones.

Of course as the child grows older and begins to walk the abnormality becomes evident. When only one side is affected, the leg concerned tends to be turned outward and is perceptibly shorter. There is also an abnormal range of movement possible in the affected hip in contrast with the normal leg. The hip contour appears strange and unequal on both sides.

Heretofore children so affected were not treated until they were two or three years of age. Recently, however, a promising new method of treatment has been reported and can be instituted when the infant is but a few months old.

This treatment, developed by Dr. C. T. Jaeger of New York and recently reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association, has much to recommend it.

It is gentle, involving no surgical procedure or vigorous manipulations and is based on the marked growth impulse and mobility of the infant's tissue.

In the treatment advised the affected leg is stretched sideways from the body and so fixed in a brace.

In this position the head of the long bone of the thigh presses against the part where the hip socket ought to be.

It is Dr. Jaeger's contention that this gentle pressure, which can be increased by means of a screw and pad arrangements, stimulates the formation of the hip bone socket and thus remedies the congenital defect.

URBANA, CLOSED UP BY MAYOR TO FIGHT OFF PANIC, NOW BOOMING AFTER LEARNING LESSON

Gossips Gagged as Town Gets Prosperity-Minded

Banks Saved, Shops Are Now Busy

By ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer

Urbana, Ill.—This is the story of a town that has whipped the depression, brought about business improvement, restored economic stability to the community and is now in the midst of a $100,000 home improvement campaign—all as the result of an hysterical "run" on the town's two banks, which threatened to break both of them.

Mayor Reginald C. Harmon's drastic five-day "moratorium," closing all business houses in the city except drug stores and groceries, gave the town an enforced period in which to "cool off" and started the chain of events toward this improvement.

Public confidence, which the Urbana Association of Commerce worked feverishly to restore at midnight meetings during this hectic period, did the rest.

Today, approximately 60 days after that fateful Jan. 18 which saw long lines of frantic and frightened depositors withdrawing their money from Urbana's two banks, a visitor finds Urbana normal, confident, busy and headed for bigger things.

The same committees that stopped the bank "run" are now being used to canvass the city in an effort to bring about $100,000 of home improvements—remodeling and repairs—and this campaign is meeting with remarkable success. This city, with a population of 13,500, is the home of the University of Illinois.

"I realized," says Mayor Harmon, Urbana's 32-year-old chief executive, "the risk I was undertaking when I issued the order that closed up the city. It was a move unprecedented in the history of the country. If it succeeded, I might save the town's banks and save a lot of our merchants from being dragged down to ruin with them; if it failed, I would be the goat and it would mean the end of my political career. But it worked. It also has worked in a dozen other cities that have since tried it."

BANKS SOUND
"Urbana's banks," Mayor Harmon continued, "were as sound as a dollar. There was nothing wrong except a lot of hysterical rumors. A big bank in the neighboring town of Champaign had just closed, dragging a smaller bank down with it. That started a lot of wild rumors about Urbana's banks."

"People believed these hysterical stories without pausing to investigate their truthfulness. And the 'runs' followed. And no bank, no matter how sound, can withstand a major 'run' if it has been doing its duty by making loans to the business houses of the town."

That day—Monday, Jan. 18—the First National Bank of Urbana and the Busey State Bank were overrun with long lines of depositors, drawing out their money.

The Busey State Bank weathered the storm until 10:30 a. m. and then closed temporarily, as state banks are permitted to do. The First National, however, could not close for a moment without losing its federal charter, so it had $400,000 cash rushed from Chicago in an armored car. This money arrived about 3 p. m. the bank's closing hour.

DEPOSITORS PLEDGED
At 1:30 p. m. that day, the directors of the Urbana Association of Commerce and the merchants of the town, held a hurried meeting. A special committee was appointed to take charge of the emergency and it drew up a pledge to be circulated among the 6,000 depositors who had a total of $2,000,000 in the two banks. This pledge read:

"Having confidence in the soundness of Urbana and its banks, we pledge to the people of Urbana that we will not withdraw from either Busey's State Bank or the First National Bank any part of our account therein until this present period of hysteria has fully subsided, and if all the depositors of the community will do likewise the banks will be saved and property values will be preserved."

By 5 p. m., the pledges had been printed and solicitors were leaving to get the signatures of depositors.

The Gossip Mongers Must Go!
Our Banks and Business Houses Are Open

Protect the Stability and Integrity of these business institutions
FIGHT! . . . FIGHT! . . . FIGHT!
Gossip of Destruction Must Stop

When Urbana, Ill., began to get a hard-times headache and runs started on two sound and staunch banks, Mayor Reginald C. Harmon, shown in inset upper left, shut up the town until citizens calmed down. Depositors were pledged to leave money in the banks and gossips were hunted down in a sizzling confidence campaign that followed. Excerpts from posters used are shown together with sketch at lower right to show result—everybody prosperous.

Meanwhile, the banks had supplied the Urbana Association of Commerce with a list of their depositors having balances of $500 or more. The test-out campaign was in the business section. By 7 p. m. Postmaster Gray and Undertaker John T. Wilcox had turned in about 150 signed pledges from the business district and reported that not a single turn down had been received. During the night, stenographers worked feverishly, listing the rest of the depositors.

MAYOR GETS BUSY
At midnight, the solicitors and officials of the Association of Commerce held a meeting at a downtown hotel, where a Dutch luncheon was served. A dramatic incident of this midnight meeting was the introduction of M. W. Busey, the 75-year-old president of the Busey State Bank.

"The Busey State Bank is solvent," the veteran banker assured the solicitors. His voice choked as he described the institution which he had spent a lifetime in building now threatened with ruin by the "run."

The veteran banker was followed by Douglas R. Fay, 32, president of the First National Bank of Urbana, said to be the youngest national bank president in the country. Fay declared that there was also no question about the solvency of the First National Bank.

At 3 a. m., Mayor Harmon was called into a conference of bankers and their legal advisors. He signed the "martial law" proclamation, closing Urbana for five days, effective immediately.

At 7 a. m., President T. B. Webber of the Association of Commerce, called Urbana's merchants together. After the situation had been explained by Mayor Harmon they voted unanimously to back his "martial law" proclamation to the limit. And so Tuesday morning, Urbana closed up tight. The mayor's proclamation for a five-day "holiday" gave both banks a legal reason for remaining closed. Thus, the "run" was halted.

By 3 p. m. Wednesday, the tireless solicitors had obtained the signatures of practically every depositor. This accomplished, Mayor Harmon terminated his five-day closing order immediately and that afternoon the stores reopened.

An amount of trade estimated at $75,000 had been lost in the 36 hours, but the merchants were happy. The banks, whose failure would have dragged many of them down, had been saved.

Mayor Raps Mob Hysteria

By R. C. HARMON
Mayor of Urbana, Ill.

I venture the assertion that fully half of our bank "runs" in this country today are due to hysteria on the part of people who have heard a lot of wild, false and baseless rumors. That was certainly the case in Urbana.

Pew banks close as the result of dishonesty behind the counter. Sometimes, unwise investments cause them to fail. But in most cases a "run" is caused by sheer hysteria.

Any city can do what Urbana has done, if the said city is loyal and community spirited. But if the citizens are not loyal and willing to co-operate, there is not much a mayor can do.

A mayor can't enforce "martial law." If he tried to do so, he might have to put hundreds of persons into jail and that would cause a riot. That's where loyalty and public spirit comes in.

Urbana had the loyalty and co-operation of its citizens in this crisis. Of the 6,000 depositors of our two banks, those who refused to join us could be counted on the fingers of one hand.

day morning, depositors began flocking back with their money. That day, deposits received at the First National Bank amounted to 31 times the amount of withdrawals, and in the Busey bank the deposits were 25 times greater than withdrawals.

Placards advertising the confidence Urbana had in these banks appeared in store windows all over town. These were followed by some what similar placards declaring "The Gossip-Mongers Must Go!" and calling upon good citizens to report destructive and doubtful gossip to the Association of Commerce. Both also appeared in newspaper advertisement, while local newspaper editorial support of the move was hearty and complete.

MONEY IN BANKS
But the plan had worked too well; people were putting all their money in the banks, instead of spending it at the stores. Business dropped. So the Association of Commerce put out more placards and newspaper advertisements, urging the public to

"Get Back to Normal—Business as Usual!"

This movement was successful, too, as evidenced by the fact that a city-wide "Dollar Day" sale a few days later brought one of the best business days in Urbana's history. Ever since then, business has progressed nicely.

Following up the work, the Association of Commerce converted its committees of solicitors into committees to investigate and run down destructive gossip about the city's banks, to prevent any repetition of hysteria.

Gossips so reported were visited by a committee, which usually included a lawyer, and warned about the criminality of circulating false rumors regarding banks. The gossiping ended very quickly.

This machinery having been so beneficial in two instances, the Association of Commerce then turned it into an agency for promoting a $100,000 home improvement campaign in Urbana. Home owners were canvassed, listed and promises of remodeling and repair work obtained.

"Now," says George Chapin, managing secretary of the Association of Commerce, "we have as much work pledges as we can finance. We are working now to finance this by promoting investments in our three building and loan associations which have never lost a cent of investors' money in their 45 years of existence."

"They offer certificates of $100 denomination, paying 6 per cent interest annually. Subscriptions are coming in nicely."

President Webber, of the Association of Commerce, looks back over the battle and says: "The newspapers saved our city. They were with us throughout. Their support was wonderful."

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By The United Press
Washington, March 11—President Hoover is the champion radio speech maker of the government. He made 28 of the 797 radio speeches made by the government officials in 1931 over National Broadcasting Company networks. Senator Copeland of New York, seems to come second with eight radio appearances during the year. Representative Beck of Pennsylvania and Secretaries Hyde and Doak follow with six speeches each and top Sol Bloom, Congressman, the ardent admirer of George Washington, by one speech.

Ruth Hanna McCormick, who became Mrs. Albert Gallatin Simms in Colorado Springs, Wednesday, has just purchased a 2,000-acre estate at Middleburg, Virginia. Middleburg is an ultra-exclusive social colony where, every year, such people as Col. William (Fighting Billy) Mitchell, Admiral Cary T. Grayson and others of money and a love of sport ride to the rounds, indulge in steep chasing and make merry in other expensive ways. Mrs. Simms has had a place leased at Middleburg for the last two years. Now she has purchased one of her own.

W. Carlton Mobley, 25-year-old Congressman from Georgia elected to succeed the late Congressman Rutherford, cast his first vote in the House for the Norris-Laguardia anti-union bill. He was Rutherford's secretary and has employed Miss Nellie Pear Thompson, who was a stenographer in Rutherford's office, as his own secretary. He will introduce as his first bill a measure to pay the widow of Congressman Rutherford $10,000. It is a custom of the Senate and the House to vote such payments to the widows of members who die in office. Mobley reports that the first communication he received from a constituent was a protest against the manufacturers sales tax provision of the new revenue bill.

President Hoover isn't given to loud laughter but he chuckled merrily when he heard a wise-cracker say that things are getting so bad these days there is even a slump in the depression. And he also likes the story about the clothing dealer who protested against the anti-hoarding campaign, complaining that it ruined the demand for socks.

PARTY SPLIT IN MINNESOTA HAS LEADERS WORRIED

Democratic Chieftains are Wondering What'll Happen In Nov.

Washington, March 11—(AP)—March's most active week of presidential politics is ending with the Democratic banners of Franklin D. Roosevelt a little higher in East and west, while the Republicans rally behind President Hoover with increased manifestations of returning confidence.

Roosevelt's parade through the New Hampshire primaries was hailed universally as a potent boost for his candidacy.

Because it was a test at the polls, and because he upset a whole slate of candidates pledged to Alfred E. Smith in that New England sector where Smith was assumed to be strongest, the New Hampshire result overshadowed the Roosevelt capture of the larger, convention-instructed Minnesota delegation.

Among the Republicans the week's significant offering was the decision to put a slate of Hoover delegates into the Ohio primary of May 10. The administration's reverses in recent elections have taught the party managers a manifest caution. Besides, they have seen no reason to take unnecessary risks, and involve themselves in the local quarrels that attend primary contests, when the President's renomination already is a foregone conclusion. With studied purpose they stayed out of the primaries in North Dakota and Illinois.

Careful Survey Made
The die was cast in Ohio after the most careful survey. An active anti-Hoover group there sought to enter Calvin Coolidge, and later Hiram Johnson, as their candidate. Evidently the Hoover managers are fully satisfied now that this group will have no formidable candidate, and no dangerous strength. The decision shows more confidence than has been apparent for a long time in the Republican organization.

The troubles of the high-riding Roosevelt boom now are transferred to North Dakota, where Governor "Alfalfa Bill" Murray has been swinging round in rural circles asking for votes at next Tuesday's primary.

Murray had some rousing meetings, and his visit was followed by a telegram from Governor Roosevelt to North Dakota leaders re-affirming his own support of farm relief measures. Roosevelt has the state organization, and that is a powerful lever, but there is no longer a disposition among the Roosevelt leaders to treat the Murray campaign as a joke.

Smith Not Discouraged
While Murray hammers away in the west and south, Governor Albert C. Ritchie keeps on the go in the east and north, and the boom for Speaker John N. Garner leads to hot words in Congress. Former Governor Smith shows no sign of discouragement at his failure in New Hampshire. He has entered Pennsylvania and California, and is keeping his name in the hat in Massachusetts, despite a demand by Mayor Curley of Boston that he quit.

Roosevelt now has 48 delegates. Murray has 22. Only 20 others, Louisiana's, have been chosen, and they are uninstructed. This is just a beginning toward the convention total of 1154.

There will be a contest from Minnesota, for the Smith men bolted the state convention. They were far in the minority, however, and will have great difficulty getting into the Chicago convention. The bolt is not very damaging insofar as it indicates a party division in Minnesota, for that state never has been in the Democratic electoral column anyway.

If what the Smith Minnesotans did, however, is an index to the temper of the Smith forces elsewhere then the development is of very wide importance. It is that sort of development which makes party leaders catchise one another earnestly on this very pertinent point: "If they're bolting already in March, what will happen by November?"

Uxoricide Is Sent To Insane Asylum

Los Angeles, March 11—(UP)—Edgar H. Rucker yesterday was found to be criminally insane and was ordered committed to Patton insane asylum by Superior Judge Thomas Gould. Rucker was charged with the murder of Mrs. Jennie Curley, Long Beach, his former wife.

JAIL FEELS DEPRESSION
Virginia, Ill., March 11—(UP)—Cass county jail inmates are the latest to feel the depression. The county board has voted a twenty-five percent reduction in the allowance for each prisoner's meal. The old rate was 33 1-3 cents.

The highest voltage transmission line to carry electricity under water is that under the Columbia river carrying power to Portland, Ore. Three cables, rated at 115,000 volts, carry the power.

OBITUARY

MRS. JAMES LENNON
(Contributed)

Rebecca Haley Knight was born at Millersburg, Ohio, August 26, 1853, was a daughter of Thomas Knight and Margaret Voorhees Knight; her father being a native of England and her mother of Holland Dutch descent. She came to Nelson township with her parents when five years of age, the family moving to Palmyra township in Civil War time, and it was here she met James Lennon, a teacher of the Prairieville school and to whom she was married in 1873. They lived for years on the farm still owned by the family, moving to Dixon in 1891 to take advantage of the educational facilities for the children and this city has since been the family home until the mother passed away, at 512 North Galena Avenue, March 3, 1932.

Mrs. Lennon was the youngest and last of a family of eight sons and daughters, each of whom lived to a ripe old age. She was the mother of five children—a daughter, Mrs. Katherine Ballou of Dixon, and four sons, Barry of Dixon, Carl of Butler, Indiana and Paul of Davenport, Iowa; one son, William as well as her husband preceding her in death.

In girlhood, she joined the Baptist church at Polo and her membership for over forty years has been in the First Baptist church of this city where she was active for the welfare and well-being of the church until her health failed. Her pastor, Rev. W. W. Marshall conducted the impressive funeral service at the home of her son, J. B. Lennon, Saturday afternoon and burial was in the family lot at Prairieville.

Mrs. Lennon came of rugged stock, no effort was too great when it would bring increased comfort and happiness to those she loved. She possessed a fine memory, often entertained her family and friends with tales of early days, tales so fascinating as never to be forgotten. She rarely complained because of illness or weakness and quietly breathed her last when the infirmities of age pressed too heavily upon her.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lennon of Butler, Indiana and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lennon and family of Davenport, Iowa were in Dixon to attend the funeral.

FRED C. NORTH
(Los Gatos, Calif., Mail-News)
Christian Science funeral services were held Monday for Fred C. North, for ten years a resident of Los Gatos. Interment was in Los Gatos cemetery. The services were conducted by Knowlton Mixer, reader, with several beautiful hymns sung by Arthur Johnson, accompanied by Mrs. Johnson. The pall bearers were J. B. Jenks, Art Walton, Ben Walton, J. M. Sullivan and Forest McCabe.

Fred C. North, son of William and Lucinda North, was born June 2, 1862, at St. Paul, Minn. When he was six his parents moved to Morrison, Illinois, where, when he was 24, he married Miss Myra Lennon. They lived for years on the farm still owned by the family, moving to Dixon in 1891 to take advantage of the educational facilities for the children and this city has since been the family home until the mother passed away, at 512 North Galena Avenue, March 3, 1932.

After the death of Mrs. North in 1913, he made his headquarters in Watertown, South Dakota, and on April 13, 1918, was united in marriage to Mrs. Harriet Hascall Hubbard of Crafton, who survives him. For the last ten years he lived in Los Gatos, and so enjoyed his California home that he persuaded his brother in law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin West of Morrison, and his brother and sister in law, Mr. and Mrs. A. Delmar North, of Chicago, to live in this state. Another sister, Mrs. Robert N. Ward, resides in Chicago. The family circle had been broken before by the death of a sister, Josephine North. Mr. North was a loving husband, father and brother.

The deceased for 25 years had been western representative of the A. S. Kreider company, and had been in the shoe business for more than 40 years, and will be sincerely mourned by warm friends in the business. He was a charter member of the Elks lodge, of Dixon, Illinois. Death was due to cardiac asthma. He was laid to rest in the Los Gatos cemetery and among the springing flowers and song of birds, we must leave him in the blessed assurance that "In that great cloister's stillness and seclusion,

By guardian angels led,
Safe from temptation, safe
From earth's pollution,
He lives whom we call dead."

"Wait for the Promise of the Father"

(Read Acts 1:4-8)

It was this act of waiting that prepared the disciples for success in spreading the gospel. We are inclined to think that to wait is to waste time. This is why we do so many things before we are spiritually ready. If our faith were more simple and our confidence more steady, we should never be in such a hurry. One of the surest marks of confidence in the future is the capacity for patient postponement. It proves one's liberation from the world's frantic anxiety to "get things done." Let us be prepared to wait for the promise of the Father. It will come when the time is full.

Prayer:
We remember, O Lord God, that a thousand years in Thy sight are as yesterday when it is past and as a watch in the night. Help us, therefore, to wait Thy summons to action. Give us serenity in the days of long delay; and grant that, when the words of Thy promise are spoken and the hour of destiny has come, we may be girded and shod in preparation for the service of Thy kingdom, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The dime-a-dance girl

BY JOAN CLAYTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ELLEN ROSSITER, beautiful 20-year-old, falls in love with LARRY HARROWGATE, young artist, whom she meets at Dreamland where she works as a dance hall hostess. Larry is engaged to ELIZABETH ROWES, a debutante, but she shows Ellen attention in a street accident. He ends a job for BERT ARMSTEAD, engaged to Ellen's sister, Myra.

From a sense of gratitude Ellen goes to the office of SYMES & PRENDERGAST, Barclay's attorneys, where her fiancé is to sign papers settling a fortune on her. She knows Symes believes her to be a gold-digger and insists that the settlement papers wait until after the marriage.

Two days before her wedding Ellen goes to the office of SYMES & PRENDERGAST, Barclay's attorneys, where her fiancé is to sign papers settling a fortune on her. She knows Symes believes her to be a gold-digger and insists that the settlement papers wait until after the marriage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIII

The next two days passed at such a pace that Ellen felt guilty when she took time to snatch a few hours sleep. There were so many, many things to do. Such things as trunks and laundry tags to think of. There was that hurried trip for a riding habit, when Steven told Ellen they would ride in London.

Oh, there were millions of things to do. The Rossiter household moved back and forth from the Brooklyn apartment to the hospital until Mike became as feverish with excitement as his elders. Molly's suggestion that the ceremonies take place in the boy's hospital room was flatly vetoed.

There were the hours spent in the cunning two rooms, kitchenette and bath where Myra and Bert were at last to begin the great adventure. Fortunately this was only two doors from the old apartment. Ellen and Myra were in and out of the place at all times of the day and night.

The girls sewed on chintz draperies and slip-covers. They hemmed tea-towels by the dozen while Bert, humming in that tuneless way of his, lacquered a bedroom suite he and Myra had bought for a song.

The living room furniture was overfurnished, a comfortable and ugly suite bought on the installment plan. Ellen was too wise to suggest that she be allowed to help. Myra was ecstatic at finding the tawdry things that would fit her budget.

Late in the afternoon of the day before the wedding Ellen went out to buy tacks for Bert. She found them sooner than she expected and hurried back. The door had been left on the latch and she stepped into the disordered living room, then stepped out as quickly, her heart pounding and her face suffused with crimson. She waiting outside, confused and feeling the beginning of a great fear.

BERT and Myra had stood in the middle of the small room, lips upon lips, bodies pressed together, clasped close in each other's arms. They had been oblivious of her presence, oblivious of everything except the burning flame that enveloped them.

Was that what Myra had tried to tell her about so long ago when she had said only love mattered? That embrace had nothing in common with the kisses Ellen had seen her sister and Bert exchange before. Was that what Steven wanted? Was that what she had promised to give him? She could never, never kiss Steven that way.

She waited a long while before rapping on the door. When she entered Myra was sewing a towel and Bert had returned to his painting. Ellen glanced a little foolishly from one to the other.

Bert casually thanked her for the tacks, took them and went into the kitchenette. They heard him pounding with the hammer. Ellen picked up the chintz curtain she had been lining, bunted for her needle and set to work again. Unconsciously she avoided her sister's eyes.

"You came in on us, didn't you?" asked Myra after a pause.

"Yes," admitted Ellen uncomfortably. "I didn't think you knew."

Myra did not appear to be particularly disturbed. A little smile played on her lips and touched her eyes. She was a trifle embarrassed but proud and thrilled, too, as she stumbingly tried to explain to Ellen that Bert's love was just as strong and as sure as it had ever been.

"It's all come back," Myra said. "And Ellen, I'm so happy I can hardly breathe. Just think tomorrow night I'll be Mrs. Bertrand B. Armstead!"

"Yes, that's right," said Ellen soberly, drawing her needle through the chintz. She picked her finger and in the flurry that followed the conversation was abandoned.

Presently Ellen felt her fear subside. She had been filling her head with a lot of nonsense. People loved each other in all kinds of ways. Steven with his indolent kindness would never demand anything she could not give. Myra and Bert—well, they were Myra and Bert.

LATER after that strange embarrassment had worn away, Ellen talked with Bert. He was nailing bright red oilcloth on the kitchenette shelves when she went to wash her hands. He seemed entirely absorbed in his task but Ellen sensed that he wanted to speak to her, so she dried her hands and waited.

"I haven't had a chance to tell you," he said presently, "what a boost you've given Myra and me—particularly me. I'm going to make good at Barclay's. Steven has been—well, he's been swell! He's given me a chance but he's made it clear that I'll have to make good on my own. And I'm going to!"

"I know you will, Bert."

"I'm sorry I made such a fuss about the clothes," he persisted uncomfortably. "Myra looks like a queen in them. But I—I hope you understand what I mean. A man wants to do things for his wife himself. You do understand, don't you?"

"Perfectly!" Ellen retorted. "I won't dip in again."

Nor would she. She understood now why the draperies Myra had found at such a bargain meant far more to her than the wardrobe selected with no thought of expense.

Her mother was more difficult. To her and to Mike, Steven represented a kind of perpetual Santa Claus. Already Mike was outrageously spoiled. His hospital room overflowed with Steven's gifts and though Mike hardly looked at them he still demanded a new present of every visitor.

Ellen hoped when she and Steven sailed things would be different. She had tried to talk seriously to her mother, to arrange somehow that she should budget her expenditures. Despite Ellen's pleas Steven had opened a generous account for his prospective mother-in-law and Molly appeared to be trying to clear it out as quickly as possible. Already Molly had managed to fill the apartment with strange purchases that apparently had been made only because she had the money to make them.

After a few feeble efforts Ellen gave up trying to pound sense into the pretty little head of the mother who ever since her sixteenth birthday had been demonstrating her ignorance of life and her unfitness to cope with it.

ELLEN yielded on every point except one. She drew the line there sharply. The argument occurred when Molly suggested that she should send a note announcing her marriage to her Aunt Myra.

"Why should I?" Ellen asked shortly. "She wouldn't be interested."

"Why, Ellen Rossiter! Your own aunt!"

"My own aunt may have sent us boxes," Ellen interrupted impatiently, "but she hasn't written a line in all those years."

"Aren't you going to look her up when you're in London?"

"Certainly not!"

"But things are different now," said Molly.

"I believe you want me to look her up to high-hat her," Ellen laughed. "Confess! Isn't that it?"

Molly hastily denied the allegation, but her cheeks were pink and she was suspiciously gracious when Ellen flatly refused to call on her aunt in London.

Then, quickly, oh, so quickly, the last night of Ellen's girlhood arrived. It was very late when she and Myra got into bed. Heroically they agreed not to talk but they might as well have for all the sleep Ellen got. She lay in the warm darkness, thinking.

She was safe tonight, alone, inviolate.

But tomorrow night?

Steven wasn't the man she wanted to marry. She would have to tell him in the morning. Oh, she couldn't, she couldn't! If she told him he would go away very quietly. He was proud but she would break his heart even though he hid the deadly hurt. She would break the heart of a man who had given her everything.

It was too late now. She could not cause that look to come into his eyes, that look of utter humiliation. She could not tell Steven that all along she had been mistaken. If he were a younger man perhaps—but Steven was not young. She could not humiliate him in a way a thousand times worse than she herself had been humiliated. She knew what that suffering was. He must be saved from that.

Perhaps she was only nervous. People talked so. It was the darkness that frightened her, the brooding, quiet darkness. If she could see Steven again she would not be frightened. She would know he was kind and gentle.

Toward morning she fell into an uneasy sleep.
